| Title of the Activity | Career Counselling-Self-Introduction |
| Conducted by | Smt. Y. Suneetha Dept. of English |
| Total No of Students: | 19 |
| No of Participants | 16 |
| Programme | I BSC |
| Objectives | Self-introduction helps other people to know about your identity, personality, and other essential things related to you. A good self-introduction should cover all aspects of the person as it creates a positive impression on others to have better connections in the future. |
| Outcomes | It gives basic details about who you are and your background. The goal of a self-introduction is to provide a quick overview of your personality, interests, skills, education and experience. It allows others to get to know you in a friendly, professional way. A good self-introduction should last 1-2 minutes |
| Brief Report | When introducing yourself in an interview, you want to give a brief summary of who you are, your background, and why you're interested in the job. Start with your name and a greeting, then mention your education, relevant experience, and any unique qualities or skills you have. Self introduction is useful for job or scholarship interviews, an organization meeting where you are new, or even the first day of class. You want to isolate a few aspects of your life, personality, or beliefs that reflect favorably on you. This is often called impression management. |
