ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I am thankful to God for giving an opportunity and strength to fulfill our work. We wish to express our heartfelt, deep sense of gratitude, and science regards to our project supervisor Smt. N.SWARNA JYOTHI, Lecture in computer science, and Department of computer science, for suggesting the problem, valuable guidance and constructive criticism throughout the course of this investigation.

I convey my heartful thanks to Dr. S. MADHAVI, Principal of V.S.R GOVERNMENT DEGREE P.G. COLLEGE, and MOVVA for giving permission and encouragement towards for the completion of novel work.

We take this opportunity to express our deepest sense of gratitude to our teacher's Vice principal, Sri.

K. R Manjula Garu lecture in Chemistry, and other Faculty member of V.S.R GOVERNMENT

CHAPTER 1: EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

1.1 Socio-Economic survey

We surveyed about "SAVE POWER SAVE ENERGY" in our villageAvurupudi during at August to October. We surveyed the social status of family detailsof easte religion, economic states of the households, health details of households and major problems of village, etc... we discussed about how to solve problems in our village and we notice them to how to save energy and how to use the energy.

Summary of all Activities

- Socio economic survey.
- 2. Identified problems.
- Awareness campaign on "SAVE POWER SAVE ENERGY".
- 4. Analysis of the problems identified.
- 5. Project report preparation

Identified Problems

- Drainage problems.
- CC Roads
- Street light problems
- Water problem
- Bus facility
- Dumping Ward

Awareness Campaign on "SAVE POWER SAVE ENERGY".

We conduct aware campaign on "SAVE POWER SAVE ENERGY". And we discussed about how to save energy and discussed with people on to save the power. And gave a advices them, how to save energy.

1.2 Ways to save energy at home.

- Turn Off All the Fans. You can turn off your fans when you are not at home.
- Seal Doors and Windows.
- Wash with Cold Water.
- Use Energy Saving Power Strips.
- Make Sure That Air Vents Are Open.
- Don't Leave the Door Open.
- > Have Disconnected Time.
- Use Smart Assistants.

Analysis of the problems identified

Drainage Problems.

- > Regular cleaning (preferably once in week) of the drains needed to be carried out, as per schedule cleaning.
- > All the open drains should be properly covered.
- All the drains should be periodically checked for any blockage.
- Observe where the excess water comes from.
- > Temporary workers.

Street light issues

- Occurs more accidents during nights.
- > Street lighting is provided along the road sides to make traffic and obstructions on the road clearly.
- > Street lights are making the street attractive.
- Street lights improve the traffic speed and traffic flow conditions.

Objectives

- To bring awareness on "SAVE POWER SAVE ENERGY".
- To reduce current bill charges.
- Save money, and also save power to the future generation.
- Use natural resources like solar energy, wind energy, tide energy etc.

Outcomes

- > The peoples know about the how many type of energy's are there. And how it will be utilized to use.
- They know how to save energy and save power to the future generation.
- They Know the SOLAR PANELS and its usage and also its cost and etc.
- ➤ All over the world 70 % THERMAL POWER usage is more, and also we told them how to save energy to the future generation.
- More overly they understood only use RENEWABLE ENERGY resources
- Finally they know how to save energy to the future generation.

CHAPTER 2: OVERVIEW OF THE COMMUNITY

2.1 Introduction of the village

A Introduction of the village/save power save energy with reference to socio economic conditions (based on secondary data available in the Grama Sachivalayam of that particular ward/habitation/village Avurupudi, is located Movva Mandal of areas while Krishna District of Andhra Pradesh.

I made the survey by collecting primary information from house hold and secondary data available in the Granma sachivalayam.

- The village consists of a population of 1,180 in which male 589 and female 591.
- The literacy rate of the village is 66.95%.
- > 70% of population are below poverty line and white card holders.
- > Households are 65%

- ➤ . The village has 2 primary schools, 1 Primary health centre and 1 Newly established GramaSachivalayam of the of the Govt.of A.P.
- This provides almost all services door step to the people. The Village secretariat provided baskets for collecting dry wastage and wet and collecting it daily from the households, under the scheme Swatch Bharat.
- Even after 70 years of independence, the social stigma in the /is not yet changed. I observed caste/religious/ based attitudes in the people.
- The gap between rich and poor was observed. Even though literacy rate is good, the educational standards are poor.
- It is also observed that the political awareness among the people is very high. They are discussing regional/national and intern national issues in the Rachabanda (where the villages meet evenings in the centre of the village).

NandamuriTaraka Rama Rao, byname NTR, (born May 28, 1923, Nimmakuru, near Machilipatnam, India—died January 18, 1996, Hyderabad), Indian motion-picture actor and director, politician, and government official who founded the Telugu Desam Party (TDP) and served three terms (1983–84; 1984–89; and 1994–95) as chief minister (head of government) of Andhra Pradeshstate in southeastern India. As an actor he rose to superstardom among the country's Telugu-speaking people and parlayed his fame into a successful political career.

- The man who would became popularly known as NTR was born in a small village near the coastal city of Machilipatnam (now in Andhra Pradesh) to a poor farming family.
- He completed a bachelor's degree from Andhra Christian College in nearby Guntur
 After qualifying for the civil service in what was then the Madras Presidency under British India, he took a job as a sub-registrar at Mangalagiri, northeast of Guntur. He soon left that post, however, to pursue a career in acting.
- NTR's first film, ManaDesam, was released in 1949, and he continued to make movies until 1982, appearing in some 300 films and directing more than a dozen. He quickly demonstrated enormous popular appeal and soon attainedcult-figure status.
- He often portrayed a Hindu god, particularly Krishna in his movies, and his adoption of the white or saffron robes of his costumes as his everyday dress only reinforced his lofty image. In March 1982 he founded the TDP, with the stated objective of protecting the interests of India's Telugu-speaking people. The TDP turned out to be highly successful at consolidating voters against the then-ruling Indian National Congress (Congress Party) in the state. Riding on NTR's popularity, TDP-affiliated candidates (contesting as independents, since the party was still unregistered) won a large majority of seats in the 1983 elections to the Andhra Pradesh legislative assembly. The party subsequently formed a government, with NTR as the first non-Congress chief minister since the establishment of the state in 1956.
- His first term, however, lasted less than two years. In August 1984, while NTR was recovering from heart surgery, the Congress-controlled national government (via the governor of Andhra Pradesh) removed him from office and appointed his finance minister (and Congress member), NadendlaBhaskara Rao, as the chief minister. In September, after NTR returned, he mobilized support among the TDP members in the assembly, reclaimed the office of chief minister, and began his second term. Following the TDP's strong performance in the 1984 elections to the Lok Sabha (lower chamber of the Indian parliament), NTR decided to seek a fresh popular mandate in Andhra Pradesh by calling assembly elections in 1985. The TDP won a commanding 202 of 294 seats, and NTR remained as chief minister.

NTR's first two administrations were marked by a number of populist initiatives that included clothing subsidies and food and housing for people below the poverty line. He initiated a midday-meal program for schoolchildren and banned the sale of alcohol in the state. Although those measures were intended to expand the TDP's popular base, they instead proved to be 1 for the state's economy by increasing expenditures and reducing tax revenue.

CHAPTER 3: COMMUNITY SERVICE

Save Power Save Energy is a project aimed at reducing energy consumption in various settings such as homes, schools, offices, and industries. The project aims to promote energy efficiency, which is crucial in addressing the energy crisis and mitigating the impacts of climate change. This report outlines the objectives, activities, and outcomes of the project.

The main objective of the Save Power Save Energy project is to promote energy efficiency and reduce energy consumption in various settings.

The specific objectives of the project include:

- To raise awareness among the public about the importance of energy conservation and efficiency.
- To provide information and education on energy-efficient technologies and practices.
- To promote the adoption of energy-efficient technologies and practices in homes, schools, offices, and industries.
- To monitor and evaluate the impact of the project on energy consumption and greenhouse gas emissions.

3.1 Energy

Scientists define energy as the ability to do work. Modern civilization is possible because people have learned how to change energy from There are many different forms of energy, including one form to another and then use it to do work. People use energy to walk and bicycle, to move cars along roads and boats through water, to cook food on stoves, to make ice in freezers, to light our homes and offices, to manufacture products, and to send astronauts into space.

- 1. Heat
- 2. Light
- 3. Motion
- 4. Electrical
- 5. Chemical
- 6. Gravitational

Chemical energy, and a person's body stores this energy until he or she uses it as kinetic energy during work or play. The stored chemical energy in coal or natural gas and the kinetic energy of water flowing in rivers can be converted to electrical energy which in turn can be converted to light and heat.

3.2 TYPES OF ENERGY SOURCES

Energy sources can be categorized as renewable or nonrenewable There are many different sources of energy, which can be divided into two basic categories:

- 1. Renewable energy sources that can be easily replenished
- Nonrenewable energy sources that cannot be easily replenished These forms of energy can be grouped into two general types of energy for doing work:
- 3. Potential or stored energy
- 4. Kinetic or working energy

Renewable and nonrenewable energy sources can be used as primary energy sources to produce Useful energy such as heat, or they can used to produce secondary energy sources such As electricity and hydrogen. Sources of Energy

1. Renewable Energy

- Solar Energy
- Wind Energy
- > Biomass and Befouls
- > Water and geothermal

2. Non Renewable energy

- Coal
- > Oil
- Natural gas
- > Petrol

Related Resources [GATHERING INFORMATION]

Energy is the capacity of a physical system to perform work. Energy exists in several forms such as heat, kinetic or mechanical energy, light, potential energy, electrical, or other forms. Energy is the ability to do work. Energy sources could be classified as Renewable and Non-renewable.

3.3Renewable Energy

Renewable Energy Renewable energy is derived from natural processes that are replenished constantly such as solar, wind, ocean, hydropower, biomass, geothermal resources, and befouls and hydrogen. Solar Energy Sun is the primary source of energy. Sunlight is a clean, renewable source of energy

It is sustainable resource, meaning it out, but can be maintained because the sun shines almost every day. Coal or gas is not sustainable or renewable: once they are gone, there is none left. Moreland more people are wanting to use clean, renewable energy such as solar, wind, geothermal steam and others; Green. It lights our houses by day, dries our clothes and agricultural produce, and keeps us warm and lots more.

SOLAR ENERGY

Technologies for productive use of solar energy solar energy can be used to generate electricity. Through Solar Photovoltaic (SPV) cells, solar radiation gets converted into DC electricity directly. The generated electricity can either be used as it's or can be stored in the battery. The stored electrical energy can be used when solar energy is not available. SPV is nowadays successfully used for home and street lighting and water pumping in villages. In hilly areas, solar water heating is also being used.

Advantages

- It is a perennial, natural source and free
- It is available in plenty
- It is non-polluting
- It does not emit any green house gases.
- Solar energy offers decentralization in most (sunny) locations, meaning self-reliant societies.
- One of the biggest advantages of solar energy is the ability to avoid the politics and price
- Volatility that is increasingly characterizing fossil fuel markets.
- It doesn't result in the destruction of forests and eco-systems that occurs with most fossil fuel operations.

Disadvantages

- Dependent on change in seasons / weather hence they may not be used always
- Solar systems doesn't work at night directly but the battery bank, which stores energy during
- Day-time can be used during night.
- Solar electricity storage technology has not reached its potential yet.

WIND ENERGY

Wind Energy Wind is the natural movement of air across the land or sea. The wind when used to turn the blades oaf wind mill turns the shaft to which they are attached. This movement of shaft through a pump or generator produces electricity. The Potential for wind power generation for grid interaction has been estimated at about 3, 02,251 MW (MW taking sites having wind power density greater than 200W/sq. m at 80 m hub-height with 2% land availability in potential areas for setting up wind farms. India now has the 4 the largest wind power installed capacity in the world which has reached 39990.10 MW PrivateAgencies own 95 % of the wind farms in India.

Advantages

- > It is environment friendly
- > Its freely and abundantly available

Disadvantages

- > High investment requirement
- Wind speed is not uniform all the time which affects power generated.

Biomass and Biofuel

Biomass

The plants fix solar energy through the process of photosynthesis to produce biomass. This biomass passes through various cycles producing different forms of energy sources. For example, fodder for animals that in turn produce dung, agricultural waste for cooking, etc. The current availability of biomass in India is estimated at about 500 million MT per annum, with an estimated surplus biomass availability of about 120 -150 million metric tons per annum covering agricultural and forestry residues. This corresponds to a potential of about 18,000 MW. Was generated through biogases based cogeneration in the country's Sugar mills.

Usage

Biomass is an important source of energy accounting for about one third of the total fuel used in our country and in about 40% of the rural households. The widespread use of biomass is for household cooking and heating. The types of biomass used are agricultural waste, wood, charcoal or dried dung.

Advantages

- > Available locally and to some extent abundantly
- It is a relatively clean fuel when compared to fossil fuels. In a way biomass also cleans ourenvironment by trapping carbon-did-oxide

Disadvantages

- > Drudgery involved in collection of fuel
- > During indoor cooking and in the absence of sufficient ventilation fuels such as dung cause Air pollution which is a serious health hazard

BIOFUELS

Biofuels are predominantly produced from biomass feed stocks or as a by-product from the industrial processing of agricultural or food products, or from the recovery and reprocessing of products such as cooking and vegetable oil. Biofuel contains no petroleum, but it can be blended at any level with petroleum fuel to create a Biofuels blend. It can be used in conventional healing equipment or diesel engine with no major modification. Biofuel is simple to use, biodegradable, non-toxic and essentially free of Sculpture and aroma. Water and geothermal Water

The flowing water and the tides in the sea are sources of energy. India is endowed with large hydropower potential of 1, 45,320 MW. Heavy investments are made on large projects. In recent years, Hyde energy (through mini and small hydel power plants) is also used to reach power to remote villages which are unelectrified. The estimated potential of Small Hydro Power is about 15, 000 MW in the country. As on Oct. 2021, the installed capacity of Small hydro projects (up to 3MW) amounts to 4821.81 MW.

Advantages of Small Hydro Power as an energy source

- > Reliable, eco-friendly, mature and proven technology.
- More suited for the sensitive mountain ecology.
- Can be exploited wherever sufficient water flows -along small streams, medium to small Rivers and also harness abundant sun-shine, wind-energy and other bio-energy sources.
- Does not involve setting up of large dams or problems of deforestation, submergence or Rehabilitation.
 - > Non-polluting, entails no waste or production of toxic gases, environment friendly.
 - > Small capital investment and short gestation period.
 - > Minimal transmission losses.
 - ➤ With careful planning and adoption of simplified and standardized designs, SHP installations are becoming increasingly competitive with thermal, diesel or gas based power generation.

Ocean energy

Oceans cover 70 percent of the earth's surface and represent an enormous amount of energy. Although currently under-utilized, Ocean energy is mostly exploited by just a few technologies:

Wave, Tidal, Current Energy and Ocean Thermal Energy.

1. Tidal Energy:

The tidal cycle occurs every 12 hours due to the gravitational force of the Moon. The difference in water height from low tide and high tide is potential energy. Similar To traditional hydropower generated from dams, tidal water can be captured in a barrage Across an estuary during high tide and forced through a hydro-turbine during low tide. The Capital cost for tidal energy power plants is very high due to high civil construction and high Power purchase tariff. To capture sufficient power from the tidal energy potential, the height of high tide must be at least five meters (16 feet) greater than low tide. Total identified Potential of Tidal Energy is about 12455 MW, with potential locations identified at Khambat & Kutch regions, and large backwaters, where barrage technology could be used.

2. Wave Energy

Wave energy is generated by the movement of a device either floating on the surface of the ocean or moored to the ocean floor. Many different techniques for converting wave energy to electric power have been studied. Wave conversion devices that float on the surface have joints hinged together that bend with the waves. This kinetic energy pumps fluid through turbines and creates electric power. Stationary wave energy conversion devices use pressure fluctuations produced in long tubes from the waves swelling up and down. This bobbing motion drives a turbine when critical pressure is reached. Other stationary platforms capture water from waves on their platforms. This water is allowed to runoff through narrow pipes that flow through a typical hydraulic turbine. The total theoretical potential of wave Energy in India along the country's coast is estimated to be about 40,000 MW – these are preliminary estimates. This energy is however less intensive than what is available in more northern and southern latitudes.

3. Current Energy:

Marine current is ocean water moving in one direction. These ocean currents known as the Gulf Stream. Tides also create currents that flow in two directions. Kinetic energy can be captured from the Gulf Stream and other tidal currents with submerged turbines that are very similar in appearance to miniature wind turbines. Similar to wind turbines, the movement of the marine current moves the rotor blades to generate electric power.

4. Ocean Thermal Energy Conversion (OTEC):

Ocean thermal energy conversion, orate, uses ocean temperature differences from the surface to depths lower than 1,000Meters, to extract energy. A temperature difference of only 20°C can yield usable energy. Research focuses on two types of OTEC technologies to extract thermal energy and convert into electric power: closed cycle and open cycle. In the closed cycle method, a working fluid, Such as ammonia, is pumped through a heat exchanger and vaporized. This vaporized steam

Runs a turbine. The cold water found at the depths of the ocean condenses the vapor back to fluid where it returns to the heat exchanger. In the open cycle system, the warm surface waterish pressurized in a vacuum chamber and converted to steam to run the turbine. The steam is then condensed using cold ocean water from lower depths. OTEC has a theoretical potential of 180,000 MW in India subject to suitable technological evolution.

5. Geothermal energy

Geothermal Energy is heat stored in earth crust and being used for electric generation and also for direct heat application. Geothermal literally means heat generated by earth. Various resource assessment carried out by agencies established the potential 10600 MWth /1000MWe spread over340 hot springs across seven Geothermal provinces/11 states. The availability of geothermal power is most environment-friendly power, round the year 24x7 bases, not affected by the severity of climate during 6 to 7 winter months like hydro and like dependence on us in solar PV.

3.4Non Renewable Energy

Energy exists freely in nature, some of them are infinitely available, called renewable, and some are called non-renewable. It is our responsibility to ensure the proper use of renewable and non-renewable energy. Non-renewable energy is limited resources that will eventually run out over the time frame. Nonrenewable energy is one that does not renew itself at a sufficient rate for sustainable economic extraction in meaningful human time-frames. Non-renewable energy is energy from fossil fuels such as coal, crude oil, natural gas, and uranium. Unlike renewable energy, non-renewable energy needs human intervention to make it suitable for consumption. Fossil fuels are mainly made up of Carbon. It is believed that fossil fuels were formed over 300 million years ago when the earth was a lot different in its landscape.

Non-renewable Energy Resources

Types of Non-renewable Energy

- Coal
- ⊳ Oil
- Natural gas
- Petrol

Non-renewable Energy Resources

The resources for non-renewable energy are mainly fuels from fossil deposits.

The most commonly non-renewable resources are:

COAL

Coal mining in India had primarily been a private sector enterprise. This changed in September 1956 when the Government of India established its own coal company National Coal Development Corporation (NCDC). [21] Collieries run by the Railways formed the nucleus of NCDC. This was to fulfill the fast growing energy requirements in the country to support rapid industrialization taking place through Five-Year Plans of the Government. In the same year, Singareni Colliery Company, which was operating in Andhra Pradesh since 1920, was also brought under the Government control when the Central Government and state Government of Andhra Pradesh acquired 45% and 55% shares respectively.

In 1971, the Government of India nationalized all the 214 coking-coal mines and 12 coke-ovens running in the private sector, excluding those held by TISCO and IISCO for their captive use. On 1 January 1972, a new Government company Bharat Coking Coal Limited (BCCL) was formed to take control of these nationalized mines and coke-ovens. On 30 January 1973, all the remaining 711 non-coking coalmines of the country in private sector were also nationalized. 184 of these mines were handed over to BCCL, and remaining 527 were handed over to a newly opened department Coal Mines Authority. 4 months later, on 14 June 1973, this department was converted into a separate Government company CMAL. NCDC, earlier formed in 1957, was merged with CMAL, and 45% share-holding of Central Government in Singareni Collieries Company Ltd was also handed over to CMAL. CMAL started functioning with its 4 divisions, viz, Eastern Coalfields, Central Coalfields, Western Coalfields, and Central Mine Planning and Design Institute.

By 1973, all coking coalmines were under BCCL, which was functioning as a subsidiary of Steel Authority of India (SAIL) under Department of Steel of the Ministry of Steel and Mines; and all non-coking coalmines were under CMAL, which was under Department of Mines of the Ministry of Steel and Mines. For better control, both BCCL and CMAL were brought on 11 October 1974 under the Department of Coal (now an independent Ministry) of the newly formed Ministry of Energy.

On 1 November 1975, a new public-sector company Coal India Limited (CIL) was formed to enable better organizational and operational efficiency in coal sector. All the 4 Divisions of CMAL were given the company status, and were brought under CIL along with BCCL. 45% share-holding of the CMAL in Singareni Collieries Company was also transferred to CIL, and CMAL was closed.

Thus, CIL started functioning in 1975 with 5 subsidiary companies under it. These were Bharat Coking Coal Limited (BCCL), Eastern Coalfields Limited (ECL), Central Coalfields Limited (CCL), Western Coalfields Limited (WCL), and Central Mine Planning & Design Institute Limited (CMPDIL). In due course of time, 3 more companies were formed under CIL by carving out certain areas of CCL and WCL. These were Northern Coalfields Limited (NCL), South-Eastern Coalfields Limited (SECL), and Mahanadi Coalfields Limited (MCL).

Pursuant to the Fuel Policy of 1974, CIL also started the construction of India's First Low Temperature Carbonisation Plant at Dankuni in the late 1970s. It was renamed as Dankuni Coal Complex, and is one of the only operational Coal gas plants of this kind in the world. Dankuni Coal Complex has been incurring heavy loss due to the Greater Calcutta Gas Supply Company (formerly known as Oriental Gas Co.) giving non-remunerative price and fixing them unilaterally. Coal India is planning to venture into Coal-to-Methanol technology at the existing Plant.

The Government of India held 100% equity of CIL from 1975 till 2010.

PETROLUM PRODUCT

As on 31 March 2021, there were 23 crude oil refineries in India, of which 18 were state-owned, 3 were privately owned and 2 were joint ventures. The total oil refining capacity in India stood at 248.87 Mt per year, remaining unchanged from the previous year. Refineries in India processed 221.37 Mt of oil in 2020-21 achieving a capacity utilization of 88.8%. With a total refining capacity of 69.2 the state-owned Indian Oil Corporation was the largest refiner in the country by capacity. Indian Oil's refineries processed 62.35 Mt of crude oil in 2020-21.

Many refineries are using the lower end residual oil with higher sulphur content to produce more lighter oils (petrol, diesel, etc.) by installing petroleum coker units. This process generates a solid fuel called Pet coke which has higher calorific value and sulphur. As developed countries have banned use of high sulphur pet coke and residual oils, these fuels further are converted in to synthetic natural gas and methanol in Methanation plants to avoid their disposal problem. Nearly 38% of residual fuel oils are consumed in the shipping sector. The International Convention for Prevention of Pollution from Ships (MARPOL), adopted by the IMO, has mandated that marine vessels shall not consume residual fuel oils (bunker fuel, etc.) with a sulphur content greater than 0.1% from the year 2020. Thus complete use of residual oil or pet coke in gasification unit would be part of petroleum refining complexes/plants in future to avoid waste products disposal.

11111111111111111

Due to the COVID-19 pandemic of 2020, refineries are forced to operate at lower capacities as the demand for petroleum products (mainly aviation turbine fuel and petrol) have fallen steeply. After the implementation of IMO rules restricting use of high sulfur fuel oil (HSFO) by the marine vessels, the prices of HSFO have fallen so low compared to crude oil and using it has become more economical by the advanced refineries with vacuum distillation and coker units to produce petrol, diesel, pet coke, etc. Pet coke is in high demand for use in cement production.

COMPRESSED NATURAL GAS [CNG]

Compressed natural gas (CNG) is a fuel gas mainly composed of methane (CH4), compressed to less than 1% of the volume it occupies at standard atmospheric pressure. It is stored and distributed in hard containers at a pressure of 20-25 megapascals (2,900-3,600 psi), usually in cylindrical or spherical shapes.

CNG is used in traditional petrol/internal combustion engine vehicles that have been modified, or in vehicles specifically manufactured for CNG use: either alone (dedicated), with a segregated liquid fuel system to extend range (dual fuel), or in Conjunction with another fuel (bi-fuel). It can be used in place of petrol (gasoline), diesel fuel, and liquefied petroleum gas (LPG). CNG combustion produces fewer undesirable gases than the aforementioned fuels. In comparison to other fuels, natural gas poses less of a threat in the event of a spill, because it is lighter than air and disperses quickly when released. Biomethane – refined biogas from anaerobic digestion or landfills – can be used.

In response to high fuel prices and environmental concerns, CNG has been used in auto rickshaws, pickup trucks, transit and school buses, and trains.

The cost and placement of fuel storage containers is the major barrier to wider/quicker adoption of CNG as a fuel. It is also why municipal government, public transportation vehicles were the most visible early adopters of it, as they can more quickly amortize the money invested in the new (and usually cheaper) fuel. In spite of these circumstances, the number of vehicles in the world using CNG has grown steadily (30 percent per year). Now, as a result of the industry's steady growth, the cost of such fuel storage cylinders has been brought down to a much more acceptable level. Especially, for the CNG Type 1 and Type 2 cylinders, many countries are able to make reliable and cost effective cylinders for conversion need

Compressed natural gas

Types of Non-renewable energy

Non-renewable energy is mainly fossil fuels. Apart from fossil fuels, nuclear fuels are also non-renewable.

Fossil Fuels

Fossil Fuels are formed from the remains of animals and plants. Fossil fuel is divided into three categories and is stated below

Natural Gas Coal Oil

The process of decomposition is longer as it is conducted with high amounts of pressure and heat. It is formed by the decomposition of trees, plants, and ferns which are hardened due to pressure and heat. Due to excessive pressure, smaller organisms like zooplankton and algae are decomposed into oil.

Nuclear Fuels

Nuclear technology relying on fission requires naturally occurring radioactive material as fuel. Uranium is the most common fission fuel and is present in the ground at relatively low Concentrations and mined in 19 countries. Nuclear power provides about 6% of the worlds Energy and 13–14% of the world's electricity.

Non-Renewable Resources Examples

Following are examples of non-renewable resources:

- a. Coal
- b. Rare earth elements
- c. Petroleum products
- d. Gold
- e. Uranium

Advantages of Non-renewable energy

- 1. The non-renewable source of energy is affordable. For instance diesel and oil.
- 2. It is easily accessible and more compatible.
- 3. The non-renewable source of energy is easy to store.

Disadvantages of Non-renewable energy

- a. Non-renewable energy cannot be replaced once its energy source is used up.
- b. The by-products of non-renewable energy cause environmental damage. It also increases
- 2. Greenhouse gases.
 - a. Transporting fossil fuels, mining and extraction activities can cause accidents and result
- 3. In oil spills, nuclear meltdowns, pipeline leaks, and even explosion.
